

Revolution und Rückbau

Als der sechsrädrige Tyrrell P34 beim ersten Europa-GP 1976 in Spanien auftauchte war er eine Sensation. Derek Gardners Idee, vier kleine lenkbare Vorderräder in ein Formel 1 Auto einzubauen war schlicht eine Revolution. Während Teamkollege Jody Scheckter noch im alten Tyrrell 007 Platz nehmen musste, stellte Patrick Depailler die Neukonstruktion beim ersten Auftritt in Jarama im Qualifying sensationell auf Rang 3.

Ab Zolder standen zwei P34 am Start, doch das neue Design machte den Fahrern auch Kummer: sie sahen beim Einlenken die kleinen Vorderräder nicht. Bei Tyrrell baute man daher kleine Fenster ins Cockpit unterhalb der Spiegel. Dieses Problem war gelöst.

Doch der revolutionäre Sechsräder-Tyrrell erkaufte sich seine aerodynamischen Vorteile auch durch Nachteile wie mehr Gewicht der komplexen Vorderachskonstruktion und eine schwierige Situation bei der speziellen Reifenentwicklung mit Goodyear. Jody Scheckter gewann zwar in Schweden doch das Auto blieb problematisch.

Als Kühlungsprobleme auftraten musste Derek Gardner bei Scheckters Auto in Zandvoort einen zusätzlichen Kühler in der Front integrieren. Das hochmoderne Konzept musste mit altmodischen Lösungen zurückgerüstet werden und ergab eine seltsame Optik. Der Zwitter landete immerhin auf Rang fünf und der Südafrikaner wurde Dritter der WM 1976.

Enzo's süße Rache

Fords Dreifachsieg bei den 24 Stunden von Le Mans 1966 hatte Enzo Ferraris Ehre tief erschüttert. Über viele Jahre hatten die Italiener den Langstrecken-Klassiker dominiert und sich erst 1966 der Übermacht der Armada an eingesetzten Ford Mk II beugen müssen. Dass gleich alle drei der bildschönen Ferrari 330 P3 ausgeschieden waren, galt in Maranello als Desaster.

Enzo Ferrari forderte daher schon beim ersten WM-Lauf der Saison 1967 Revanche für diesen Schmach. Anfang Februar 1967 trafen die Kontrahenten bei den 24 Stunden von Daytona erneut aufeinander: sechs 7-Liter V8 Ford Mk II gegen drei Werks-Ferrari mit ihren 4-Liter V12-Motoren.

Selten gab es im Motorsport einen eindrucksvolleren Rachefeldzug, denn Ferrari fügte dem Giganten Ford auf heimischem Boden eine vernichtende Niederlage zu. Mit 73 Runden Rückstand landete der beste Ford Mk II abgeschlagen auf Rang 7.

Der Ferrari 330 P3/4 Spyder mit Lorenzo Bandini und Chris Amon gewann das Rennen, drei Runden vor der #24, dem 330 P4 mit Mike Parkes und Ludovico Scarfiotti. Mit Rang drei machte der vom N.A.R.T. eingesetzte 412P mit Pedro Rodriguez und Jean Guichet den italienischen Dreifach-Triumph perfekt. Die Schmach von Le Mans 1966 war nicht vergessen aber für Enzo Ferrari angemessen gerächt.
